COMMUNITY IMPACT

United Way mobilizes communities to action so all can thrive.

SERVING WAYNE &
UNION COUNTIES
SINCE 1928

Your United Way is a:

CONVENER

Through quarterly Lunch & Learn gatherings, non-profits and community organizations are equipped to better serve the Whitewater Valley.

LEADER

By facilitating trainings for teachers, non-profit leaders and community members in Trust Based Relational Interventions®, trauma-informed care can be delivered to thousands of youth every day.

FUNDER

The United Way of Whitewater Valley matches generous donors with programs and initiatives of greatest need for maximum impact in the lives of our friends and neighbors.

Kory George, Wayne County Probation

The United Way of Whitewater Valley demonstrated remarkable foresight by funding Trust-Based Relational Intervention (TBRI) training throughout the Wayne County school districts. By equipping every school in the county with this training, they laid a strong and unified foundation of trauma-informed knowledge among the adults who work with our youth.

This investment by the United Way of Whitewater Valley will have a lasting and far-reaching impact, shaping the well-being of our community for years to come. It also sets a powerful example—one we hope inspires broader adoption of trauma-informed practices across Wayne County and beyond.

Amy Dillon, Board Member

I joined the United Way of Whitewater Valley Board of Directors because I am deeply committed to serving my community and making a difference in the lives of others. I believe in the importance of addressing critical social issues such as community health and resilience, financial stability, and youth opportunities. Being part of this board provides a valuable opportunity to collaborate with dedicated community leaders, nonprofit professionals, and stakeholders who share a common goal of strengthening our community and creating lasting impact.

Stasia Veramallay, United Way Donor

United Way is an overarching organization that cherishes our area's needs, like me. It's rewarding to know that my time, treasure, and talent are working in concert to edify several other groups that share our collective goal to improve our community.

Misty Hollis, YMCA

I'm not sure how we could reach the families we do without United Way's support. The United Way has been a partner for nearly 40 years, and it has been a key to helping our families.
